This means that the contract of employment will be confirmed only after receiving a positive assessment of a number of training modules. Details of the performance assessment will be provided at the beginning of the training.

Upon successful completion of basic training, European Standing Corps officers may enter specialised training, following their individual learning map according to recognised prior learning and strengths identified during basic training. 3.3. Probationary period

A contract of employment will be offered for a period of five years, with a probationary period of nine months. At the latest one month before the expiry of the probationary period, a report will be prepared on the ability of the newcomer to perform the duties pertaining to the post and on efficiency and conduct in the service.

The ability to perform the duties in this case will include the ability to use English at the specified level and will be assessed by specific tests in view of the objectives covered by the specific and mandatory European Border and Coast Guard Officers' training programme (as described in point 3.2). This training will be provided to newcomers during the probationary period. All elements of the training programme, including the materials, teaching and delivery, assignments and tests will be conducted in English. The duration of the training programme is 24 weeks, which constitutes 960 learning hours. The first iteration of the training programme is envisaged to take place from May to November 2020.

Upon completion, various modules of the programme will be assessed by exams. Acquired knowledge, skills, responsibility, autonomy and attitude will be assessed against the requirements of the European Border and Coast Guard Standing Corps training programme. The topics covered in training programme modules are designed to evaluate operational readiness to perform duties pertaining to the job. Fundamental rights competences are horizontally integrated in all chapters throughout the entire programme. During the training, there will be an aptitude test which will be used to assess your ability to perform duties with executive powers. A negative result may lead to the unsuccessful completion of the probationary period and termination of the contract.

Failure to successfully complete the European Border and Coast Guard Officers training programme, including psychological aptitude assessment (described in point 4 of the Appendix II) will result in the unsuccessful completion of probationary period and dismissal.

3.4. Deployment

Subject to operational needs, they may also be requested to remain on stand-by and called to perform operational tasks should such a need occur at short notice.

Deployment of the Standing Corps will take place either in operational areas or in the Headquarters.

Deployment in the shift work pattern or during stand by time may be subject to additional allowances.

For those members of the European Standing Corps deployed outside the Headquarters a rotation principle will be applied, meaning that during the course of a year, following a period of deployment staff members of the European Standing Corps will be stationed at the Agency's Headquarters in Warsaw, Poland. Below is the short description of the dimensions to be assessed:

Openness

Openness describes a person's tendency to think in abstract, complex ways. High scorers tend to be creative, adventurous, and intellectual. They enjoy playing with ideas and discovering novel experiences. Low scorers tend to be practical, conventional, and focused on the concrete. They tend to avoid the unknown and follow traditional ways.

Conscientiousness

Conscientiousness describes a person's ability to exercise self-discipline and control in order to pursue their goals. High scorers are organized and determined, and are able to forego immediate gratification for the sake of long-term achievement. Low scorers are impulsive and easily side tracked.

Extraversion

Extraversion describes a person's inclination to seek stimulation from the outside world, especially in the form of attention from other people. Extraverts engage actively with others to earn friendship, admiration, power, status, excitement, and romance. Introverts, on the other hand, conserve their energy, and do not work as hard to earn these social rewards.

Agreeableness

Agreeableness describes a person's tendency to put others' needs ahead of their own, and to cooperate rather than compete with others. People who are high in Agreeableness experience a great deal of empathy and tend to get pleasure out of serving and taking care of others. They are usually trusting and forgiving.

Neuroticism

Neuroticism describes a person's tendency to experience negative emotions, including fear, sadness, anxiety, guilt, and shame. While everyone experiences these emotions from time to time, some people are more prone to them than others.
