Active Ageing

Demographically Italy is one of the oldest countries in the world, where almost a quarter of the population is over 65 years old. Japan, a country with a similar demographic profile, has asked a selection of fellow OECD members to contribute a short report (max. 1000 words) on active ageing in their countries, illustrating the current situation and government policies and actions in this field.

Use the information in the dossier to write your report on active ageing in Italy in English for the Japanese Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare.
